Economy Pledge Respected by Governor and the total income must always be borne in mind in considering appropriations.

Two years ago Gov. Stephens and his machine advisers arbitrarily increased revenue of the State to meet State expenditures; the present Governor, who was elected by the people to stop such abuse of the power, proposes that expenditures shall be decreased to meet available revenue.

The Governor's budget, adhering strictly to the provisions of the new budget law adopted by the people in November, is the most comprehensive and detailed account of State costs and the general financial condition of State government that has ever been compiled. Budgets presented by former executives have been skeletonized and have included only a few items under general headings.

The three members of the State Board of Control, Gilbert Daniels, chairman, George Radcliffe and Mrs. Nellie Brewer Pierce, have worked early and late for more than three weeks going over budget estimates received from State boards, commissions, departments, bureaus and other agencies.

Despite the lack of co-operation by many department heads and in the face of open hostility on the part of others, big and little items have been lopped off here and there until by reductions and eliminations the State has been, in a very large measure, "returned to the business basis," which Mr. Richardson promised before his election.

MILLIONS SAVED

Millions of dollars have been saved by the elimination of the more than 500 State jobs, elimination of duplication and the outright abolition of scores of minor commissions and boards. It is probable that further reductions will be recommended by the Governor when the Legislature reconvenes in March.

A resolution fixing Friday as the date for adjournment of the thirty-day recess was adopted by the Assembly today after considerable debate and opposition by legislators who frankly admitted that they desired ample time after submission of the Governor's budget to introduce special appropriation bills covering reductions or eliminations which the Governor is expected to recommend.

However, the greatest outburst of oratory that has occurred thus far in the session was precipitated by the introduction by Assemblyman Henry E. Carter, of a resolution providing for legislative investigation of campaign contributions extorted from State civil service employees preceding the primary election in August, by officers of the former administration. Apparently few members had anticipated a measure of such drastic and plain-spoken proportions, but after the first shock surprise had subsided to permit members to regain the use of their vocal organs, Assemblyman Carter of San Francisco offered an amendment referring the matter to committee.

Mr. Patterson, one of the friends of the State machine in the Legislature two years ago, his intervention to prevent passage of the resolution, and the whole matter finally, with Mr. Carter's consent, went over until tomorrow as a special order of business.

ARGUMENTS DELAY ACTION

Each member who opposed passage of the resolution today, including Wright of San Jose, Critchfield of San Francisco, and others, made a long and elaborate speech.

BAY CITY CHEST IS HEAPED UP

Funds Campaign Exceeds Top Notch Figure of $2,037,306

(BY A. F. NIGHT WEBB)

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 31.—The figure of $2,037,306, which San Francisco had set for its "community chest" campaign for funds for charity and welfare organizations, was exceeded by $1574, it was announced today at the close of the campaign. There were 100,000 subscribers.

The response of the various organizations were pooled in the "community chest" in order to do away with repeated "drives" for funds in the city.

Although determined effort to raise the proposed investment for the chest was made, Mr. Carter's resolution is considered for tomorrow, it is probable that the old machine sympathizers can muster sufficient votes to attain their object.

It is probable that the Governor's budget will be submitted to the Legislature tomorrow afternoon, thus allowing Senators and Assemblymen at least thirty-six hours before adjournment in which to submit special appropriations to meet the needs of the State.

One billiger Assemblyman is said to have already prepared more than thirty bills appropriating several hundred thousand dollars for road projects and other enterprises in his district. When the information leaked out late today that the Governor's budget had been completed and that his proposed reductions and outright eliminations would result in a budget calling for a biennial appropriation of less than $175,000,000, gloom settled upon many legislators and members stood around waiting for a glance at the detailed items as men who have learned of a catastrophe and are forced to remain in doubt as to whether or not those near and dear to them are numbered among the victims.

There seems to be no reason for believing that any of the bills now before the Legislature are to be fully realized and that if they succeeded in adding special appropriations to the budget, they would be able to vote over the Governor's veto.

cially noticeable in the vicinity of Rialto, where the temperature rose 2 deg. in an hour, from 28 to 30. Temperatures at other points in the valley at 11 o'clock were: Bernardino, 31; Fontana, 32; Redlands, 31; Highland, 32.

In the Pomona section the frost-control organization is most efficient and hourly reports are coming from all orchards.

J. E. Adams, one of the best-informed citrus men at Pomona, said late last night that he did not expect smudging to be necessary there except in a few lemon groves in the more exposed places, and not there unless conditions took a sudden turn for the worse.

F. D. Young, government weather observer at Pomona, said that he did not anticipate a temperature lower than 26 degrees, and that a close watch would be kept for probable changes.

Temperatures from the orange orchards are reported at 10 o'clock as being: 30 at Rialto, 34 at Greenport, 32 in Redlands, 32 at Bryn Mawr and 32 at Highland.

J. W. Arnold, weather observer there, said that it was probable that the temperature in unprotected places might go as low as 25 during the night or early morning.

ORCHARDS GUARDED

The danger line with oranges is said to be at 27, so arrangements were being made to protect the orchards in the event the weather man's predictions become true. Few orchards in this section are equipped for smudging, but these will take advantage of artificial heating early this morning.

Pots are expected to be used at Rialto, Fontana, Redlands, Upland and Ontario, in fact everywhere where the orchards are equipped.

The first hailstorm since 1921 fell at Santa Barbara today, changing quickly to a heavy rain which lasted fifteen minutes. The mercury fell to 30 degrees this morning and Santa Barbara people shivered in overcoats and mufflers.

SNOW EXCEPT

In Riverside county it is reported the temperature may go as low as 27 degrees, but the full American plan will probably be submitted to Congress in the very near future with a request that the law be altered so that the plan may be ratified and the debt negotiations be concluded. I hope we may get action before this Congress adjourns.

DREDGE REGULATION IS SOUGHT IN BILL

(BY A. F. NIGHT WEBB)

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 31.—At the request of the United Fruit and other organizations, Senator Inman of Sacramento today presented a bill to regulate dredging. Before any new dredge mining enterprise is commenced, under the bill, a permit must be issued by the State Water Commission, and the commission would be authorized to pass upon the question of whether the enterprise is more valuable for agricultural purposes than for mining. Companies now operating would have six months' leeway in which to obtain permits without interruption of their activities.

Pending receipt of such advice through the State Department of British Embassy details the American plan were withheld from publication.

The State Department was notified by Ambassador Harvey at London that the British cabinet had approved the American plan, as presented by the American debt commission to Chancellor of the Exchequer Baldwin. No details were given in Col. Lister's brief communication, but the ambassador indicated they would follow shortly.

A late hour tonight these details were being discussed in the quarters at the capital that the funding plan would have had many members of the House of Representatives in the Senate.

He furnished a cue to the ever alert anti-British clans in the Senate. Senators Johnson of California, McNamara of California, and others are expected to raise the latest version of the American people were taxed now on basis of an interest charge of about 4 or 5 per cent to raise the funds which were borrowed by Great Britain and now repaid at 3 and 3 1/2 per cent.

CLEARER DEBT PROBLEM

"The acceptance by the British cabinet of the American debt funding plan," Senator Smoot said, "will be the medium by which the debt problem will be cleared up."

"It is very gratifying news," said Senator Watson, of Indiana, "an old and tried friend of the American people. It will have a stabilizing effect on the finances of the whole country and will have a wholesome effect on the American mind."

OPPOSITION TALKS

"I have no objection," Senator Capper said, "to the length of time covered by the plan, but the question is whether we can accept a lower rate of interest than our own government is paying on its own war bonds."

GEORGE JAY GOULDS SPLIT

Pretty, Young, Dancing Wife in Paris and Husband is Somewhere in Egypt With Father

(BY HENRY WALES)

(BY CABLE-EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

PARIS, Jan. 31.—My husband will probably have a lot more to say about our separation than I, said Laura Carter Gould, the pretty, young, dancing wife of George Jay Gould today, when she was found in a small room at a modest Paris hotel. Mrs. Gould recently arrived from Monte Carlo and her children join her tomorrow.

Mr. Gould is in Egypt with his father. His wife does not know exactly where he is but believes he is proceeding to Luxor to inspect the tombs of the ancient potentates which are being unearthed there.

"Nothing is decided yet and I came here to decide whether to sue for absolute divorce or just a separation," said Mrs. Gould. She conferred with her lawyer today and her friends say the attorney has not yet given his final advice.

After her arrival in Paris Mrs. Gould was the guest of Countess Bunt, until yesterday. She does not seem depressed and was strongly dressed in the latest fashion, wearing a light, tailor-made suit.

so taxed that any government might feel itself very strong in an attempt even to slight an increase. When the Cabinet met yesterday it had only fragmentary reports of the action from the United States to Mr. Baldwin's statement and during that meeting was seriously discussing the details of what "led up to the decision."

SENATE BLOCS AGAIN CLASH

If the farm bloc proposed to give the farm "more than a square deal," with the statement that the farmers and other producers did not have an "equal voice" in the affairs of the government. Mr. Brookhart said:

"I want to say that the farm bloc, the labor bloc, the common soldier bloc and the mothers' bloc of this country," said Mr. Brookhart, "mean to have equal rights, equal economic and equal political power with those other combinations which are now able to put this overhead charge upon the people of this country with such power, both politically and economically, that it amounts to taxation without representation."

"If that is what the farm bloc represents," said Mr. Reed, "then we will all belong to the farm bloc. Both Democrats and Republicans realize that the farmer has borne the brunt of his adjustment after the war."

"Both Democrats and Republicans want to help as far as legislation can help and I am wondering whether the Senator does not ascribe to himself and perhaps to some of his colleagues a monopoly of good intentions that are shared in fact by all of us."

SPECIAL PRIVILEGE

"If any occupational group is protected today in the United States so that it is given special privilege we are all agreed that ought to be stricken down, that the special privilege ought to be ended. I am wondering if the Senator is not describing the whole Senate when he is trying to describe his own feelings toward the farmer's present distress."

"But if the Senator means that Congress, or the Senate of the United States is to be divided up into occupational groups, groups owing allegiance to persons following a particular occupation, so that we will have farmer senators, dan-ties senators, and railroad senators and groups of that sort, then I hope the day will never come when the Senate has a Soviet of that description."

"It has been tried in Russia; the experiment has been given trial and it has collapsed, with the collapse that is inevitable for such effort."

SCORES FARMER Schemes

A proposal of Mr. Brookhart to permit farmers' co-operative organizations to be admitted to the national banking system was denounced by Mr. Reed as providing for a "dangerous" method of bank organization which has been tried in North Dakota and the Non-Partisan League and which has failed.

The plan had not been tried in North Dakota, Mr. Brookhart said, but he was unable to estimate its cost or as low as 2 per cent on their invested capital, which business would 100 per cent, 200 per cent and obtained it as evidenced by the stock dividends issued.

He then turned his attack to the United States Chamber of Commerce bloc, the Wall Street bloc, and others who had seized away power in Congress.

STATE SENATE WARS ON CRIME

Plan to Change Law Has Backing of State

ago by the illness of a relative. The proposed measures have been introduced by the judicial section of the State Bar Association, the Los Angeles Crime Commission and other important organizations. The object of the measure is to enable the State to increase its powers to suppress and discourage violent crimes. It is felt that crimes of violence strike at the very heart of modern civilization and that it requires drastic steps to prevent crimes of this sort. Enactment of the two proposed constitutional amendments and the changes in the political code, it is believed, will serve notice upon the burglar and the highwayman in advance that not only does the law propose a very heavy penalty for crimes of violence, but also that the individual who commits the offense will have no chance for probation or undue leniency.

The anti-robbery bills introduced today follow:
Section 107, Penal Code, makes it a felony for a prisoner to escape from the County Jail or while engaged on county road or other county work. (Explanation: At the present time the escape of a prisoner from the County Jail is only a misdemeanor while the escape from the State penitentiary is a felony. Many prisoners in the County Jail are accused or convicted of felony. It is the practice also to permit prisoners to work on county road gangs. It is believed that in making an escape a felony, it will have the effect of deterring prisoners while doing this work from escaping.)

Section 1243, Penal Code—This provides that upon the conviction of a felony the accused is sent at once to the State penitentiary pending his appeal unless the trial court or Supreme court issues a certificate of probable cause. The purpose of the bill is to permit the taking to the penitentiary of dangerous criminals pending the appeal and to remove them from the less-hardened criminals who are confined in the County Jail.

Section 490, Penal Code—This classifies burglary in three degrees instead of two degrees as is now the case. It makes burglary of an inhabited dwelling-house by a person armed with a deadly weapon a burglary of first degree and punishable by not less than ten years in the penitentiary. Burglary of second degree is that committed in the night time not armed with a deadly weapon except where they burglarize inhabited dwelling-houses, which is a first-degree crime whether armed or unarmed. The third-degree burglaries are instances where sneak thieves enter rooming-houses unarmed and steal clothing or climb into box cars and while unarmed, remove merchandise.

A new section is added to the Penal Code, known as 311-A. It provides that where robbery is perpetrated by torture or a person armed with a deadly weapon, it becomes robbery in the first degree and is punishable by a term of not less than ten years. The present law makes no distinction between classes of robbery.

FOR THREE-FOURTH VERDICT

Judicial Section of Bar Association Also Favors Judges
Commenting to Jury on Facts

The judicial section of the California Bar Association has gone on record in favor of the three-fourths verdict in criminal cases and of permitting judges to comment on the facts in advising juries. These are identical with the chief measures of the program of judicial and legal reform endorsed by the Los Angeles Crime Commission and the Los Angeles County Bar Association, now occupying the attention of jurists, attorneys and citizens generally in all parts of the State as a means of checking materially the growth of crime because of inadequate methods of preventing and punishing it.

Advocacy of these two measures was made by the judicial section of the State association at its convention at San Francisco in August last. Just prior to the convention the American Bar Association in that city. But because of the many other things under discussion the association did not attract any notice in the lay press at the time. In the light of the present movement to accomplish things which only can be done by amendments to the State Constitution, such action has become highly significant and important. It means that from forty to fifty jurists of California, representing all communities in the State, voted in favor of measures that later have been put in a way to become bills, requiring Legislature, by a two-thirds vote, and a vote by the people at the next general election. One of the chief advocates of these reforms is Presiding Justice N. P. Conroy of the District Court of Appeal, second district, Division No. 1 (Los Angeles), who is chairman of the judicial section of the State Bar Association.

In the discussion at San Francisco the judicial section of the association was divided into two camps. Judge J. R. Welch of the Supreme Court at San Jose, who is a strong advocate of the three-fourths verdict, was opposed by Judge H. L. Preston of the Superior Court at Ukiah, Mendocino county, approved of it, even in capital cases.

The program now being offered to the legislators and the people of the State recommends the three-fourths verdict in criminal cases. It is argued that vast sums now lost by hung juries and consequent retrials would be saved, and that since the majority verdict has worked satisfactorily and with an admitted justice in civil cases in the courts of this State for many years, it could not fall in the courts if applied to criminal cases.

The local prohibition against a judge commenting on matters of fact dates from the 18th Century of California. Justice Conroy said yesterday that this limitation does not come to Anglo-Saxon law, but had been introduced by some State, others copying it, a relatively few years ago, probably due to a desire to keep some arbitrary judge. It is argued that to permit the judge to express his opinion to the jury whether such and such a matter has been proved as a point of fact would facilitate trials and make for a greater clarity in the minds of the jurors, so often confused by contrary arguments and statements. At present the judge only may advise the jury on points of law as applied to the facts as they appear in the case. In neither case, however, is the jury bound to accept the judge's instructions.

SCOTLAND PROCEDURE
The majority verdict has been used for generations in all courts of Scotland in both civil and criminal cases. Judges are permitted to advise the jury on points of fact in Federal courts of this country and in all courts in England, both being noted for their efficiency.

The limitation of the judge's power in expressing his opinion as to facts appears to be a relatively recent American innovation on the theory of judicial conduct as handed down from the mother country.

The two matters did not reach a form to be put to the California or the American Bar Association as a whole. However, Judge Conroy made an address before the judicial section of the National Association which made a profound impression on the jurists there assembled. In it he said: "I have said that the judicial section in California has also taken up for consideration some of the defects in the administration of criminal law. For many years it has been established law in California that in a civil action, tried before a jury, the agreement of three-fourths of the jurors is sufficient to authorize a verdict. Many of us believe that this rule should be extended to criminal cases. Long experience has shown that the rule works well in civil actions. The complaints of which we hear are that materials too easily occur in criminal cases, that the jury too easily agree to verdicts in civil actions. I am inclined to the belief that two of the important changes necessary in order to rescue from disrepute the administration of law in criminal cases are, first, that the three-fourths rule for verdicts of juries be extended to criminal cases; and, second, that the common practices of publicity concerning crimes and persons accused of crime should in some way be so reformed that it would be possible to get jurors of at least average intelligence whose minds were not first poisoned by innumerable varieties of propaganda for or against the accused who is to be tried in the court. Connected with the subject of trial by jury in criminal cases, there is another, arbitrarily created, source of confusion, which creates difficulties which should not exist in obtaining verdicts from juries. Section 19 of Article VI of the constitution of California provides that 'judges shall not charge juries with respect to matters of fact, but may state the testimony and declare the law.' That is a very striking sentence. It strikes the eye of a trial judge every time he is to instruct a jury. By forbidding him to comment upon matters of fact, it often strikes truth from his tongue and courage from his heart. On the other side, it encourages shameless impudence in the minds of guilty men.

The speaker went on to lament the legislative interference with the details of judicial conduct, of which the prohibition of comment on facts may be considered one. He said: "Another great subject for the consideration of judicial sections and of bar associations in general is that of the proper relation of procedure in both civil and criminal cases. It need only mention the matter now without particular

For Winter Comfort—

Hinds' Honey and Almond Cream

It prevents as well as heals chapped skins that come from exposure to wintry winds.

It is the purity and refinement and gratifying effect of Hinds' Honey and Almond Cream that have gained for it such a remarkable nation-wide and world-wide patronage. It is good for everybody in your home—grown-ups and kiddies. Father and brother like it after shaving and to keep their hands smooth and good looking.

WONDERFUL BASE FOR FACE POWDER—Hinds' Honey and Almond Cream is now used for this purpose with marvelous success. Moistens the skin slightly with the cream, let it soak in, then dust on the powder. It will adhere to perfection.

AS A MANICURING AID THIS CREAM softens the cuticle, prevents soreness and preserves the luster of the nails.

Dr. Barrows to Meet With Southern Branch Regents
for Early Decision

Regents of the University of California will determine their policy on the project of giving Southern Branch a full collegiate course at a meeting today or tomorrow with Dr. David P. Barrows, president of the university. It was announced yesterday.

The policy probably will be announced on the 15th inst. at the annual banquet of California alumni at the Ambassador.

Dr. Barrows is coming to Los Angeles to study the conditions at Southern Branch, he advised Clinton E. Miller, president of the alumni association, in a telegram.

was the case of Wilbert Robinson. The American League, as we formed it then, was composed of Boston, Baltimore, Washington and Philadelphia in the East and Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit and St. Louis in the West.

BASEBALL WAR

A real baseball war was on. We immediately started a raid on the National League, and we managed to grab most of the players that I had heard of. The only one who was more clever than you was the dropping of the bomb.

It strikes one there is less and less tendency on the part of the players to fall on a loose football as means of recovering a fumble.

Then began my troubles with Ben Johnson. He attempted to make plain right here just what brought about my leaving the American League; to correct the many erroneous stories that have gone round.

THESE FACTS

If possible turn the recovery into valuable yardage.

This probably is a natural evolution of the open game, which is more elastic in every way. Greater elasticity is justified because greater yardage must be gained. When massed play was in vogue,

This crippled us considerably. I am not exactly a fool and I soon discovered what I thought to be the cause of this.

Johnson's ultimate ambition was to get a club in New York. If he succeeded this meant, of course, that Baltimore again would be half. Compared with him a cuttlefish or a boa constrictor coiled around his quarry would seem loose as asbes. Officials needed an overgrown shoe horn to remove it from his embrace.

left holding the bag. Baltimore was the weakest team in attendance. If it failed to hold its own that would be a good excuse to the public for dropping it.

MANY RUN-INS

We had many run-ins and arguments with many of the fans. The present era are better at judging a football in the open, and have developed greater ability to handle it. This is partly because there are more opportunities. The forward pass also has been a factor. Football may not be better, but there is more to it.

We finished out the season and began the season of 1982. To me it was quite obvious now that Johnson intended to drop the Baltimore club and to put a team in New

Under those circumstances, and thus forewarned, any man with business judgment, would take steps not to be left with the bag to hold.

In 1902 the Baltimore club was losing money. Though we operated as a stock company had 100 shares, the majority was of

CALLS MEETING

I called a meeting of the stock-

We Believe It's a Cinch We'll Get a Big Oil Well

If You Want a Run for Your Money, Get in Today

Capitalization Only 1000 Stock Interests, $100 Each

If you want to share in the big profits that are being made at Signal Hill this is your opportunity to get into a company with a low capitalization and a lease in the heart of the proven section. Drilling contract let, derrick completed, machinery being moved to the ground. We're all set to go.

The great Leonard 4300-barrel well, which came in last week, is within 800 feet of our derrick. The Kack No. 4, Herwick, Benwell and Marine No. 7 are within 1000 feet of us. And the Mitchell-Corbett is just across the street—all recent producers. We are right in the Heart of Production. AND REMEMBER—we are selling only 500 Stock Interests at $100 each to the public. Purchasers of these 500 Stock Interests are GUARANTEED all the PROFITS from oil production until they have been paid full in full—after that, they share, pro-rata, in 50% of the profits. You can't deny this is a real, inside, ground-floor oil investment opportunity.

We'll Give You All the Facts You Want—See Us Today

ORDERS for MIRACLE units reached us by mail, telegraph, phone and office calls in such volume yesterday that it was a physical impossibility for our office force to handle them, or to give our customary courteous, prompt service.

We will have additional salesmen on hand today and will try to give a little better service. If you were disappointed yesterday—come again today.

Miracle units are the absolute assignment of oil production, embracing perpetual, unalterable, non-assessable interest in five great Signal Hill leases. They share in all of the oil Miracle ever receives from all of its wells on all of its leases.

Miracle units are sold with the absolute guarantee of "production or money back." Details cheerfully given.

Until tonight at 9:00 P.M., orders for these units at $100 each will be filled at all of our offices in the rotation received. Come to the office—Wire or phone.

Spirit of Love

"My boy was a good citizen, joyous and wholesome and fine—but war was declared, and he went away and never came back—and that's what may happen to your darling boy unless you help to make the nations of the world get friendly before he grows to manhood."

With this striking sentence, Harry Lauder, famous Scotch comedian, in an address before the City Club yesterday appealed to his audience to spread the spirit of peace and fraternity.

Mr. Lauder, who was introduced by L. H. Meyer, kept his audience riveted for nearly an hour, and then brought tears to the eyes of hundreds as he spoke of the sacrifice of his son, vividly described the terrors of the war and pleaded for the cultivation of a spirit of love among men and nations.

With this striking sentence, Harry Lauder, famous Scotch comedian, in an address before the City Club yesterday appealed to his audience to spread the spirit of peace and fraternity.

north, south, east and west—must stand or fall together. "America can't go on without Europe," continued the speaker. "I don't know anything about reparations nor how the war debts are to be paid, but I do know that Europe needs American brains, American commerce, and, above all, America's good will. The time has come when men and nations must substitute vision for vanity, patience for petulance and sagacity for suspicion."

"God, work, home and a kindly neighbor over the garden wall" are the best things life can give to any worthy man, according to Mr. Lauder, who added, "Work is man's best friend, and service to one's fellow-men is his only legitimate claim to recognition."

Scoring the selfish individual, "who has no thought except that of his own personal right of way," Mr. Lauder said that the successful selfish man is not a true success because he is neither useful nor happy.

"As to the unsuccessful selfish man, he is usually found in the ranks of the agitators," said the speaker. "And do you know, I'm dead nuts on agitators. For they are the rank weeds in the fair garden of industry."

ASSAULT CASE
COMES FIRST

A charge of disturbing the peace against George Calney, preferred by Angela Kaufman, social worker, was called in police court yesterday. It was ordered taken from the calendar at the request of Dep. City Prosecutor Lucas pending settlement of an assault charge to be heard in the Superior Court.

The two charges resulted from Mrs. Kaufman's assertion that Calney kicked her in the stomach during an argument at the preview of her motion picture on the

UNITED STUDIOS

Mr. Leves is to discuss the possibility of buying the controlling interest in the United Studios, having presented my idea to Mr. Lewis, a deal was worked out whereby he could obtain for us practically all of the outstanding stock of the United Studios. This deal we completed today.

"I intend to immediately move my office, my staff and my start, namely, Norma Talmadge, to the new building at 416 West Seventh Street, which I have named the United Studios."

THANKS MOTHER

"Having decided after a study of conditions that Los Angeles was the best spot in which to produce pictures property and successfully, I felt that I could no longer impose upon the friendship of Marcus Low and Joseph Engel, president and vice-president of the Metro Studios, who have been kind enough to accommodate me with their producing facilities, and other cooperation during the filming of the Norma Talmadge picture 'Within the Law'."

Feeling that the time that any producer spends in Los Angeles should be temporary, I gladly accepted the kind offer of Mr. Lewis and Mr. Engel for the use of their studio and its facilities."

Mr. Lewis issued the following statement:

"There will be no radical change in the policy for the immediate future. The United Studios, having purchased the major portion of the outstanding stock, it places the personnel of the organization more or less under his direct supervision, so that this organization will be able to handle the technical production of all of Mr. Schenck's pictures and its facilities will be available to all producers at the United Studios."

FOUNDED IN 1917

Under this new arrangement, the producer need only bring to the United Studios his director, his story and players. All else he will find for his use at the studio.

The United Studios were founded by Robert Brunton in 1917, and purchased by M. C. Leves and named the United Studios a year and a half ago. There are 500 men and women on the staff, which will be augmented by Mr. Schenck. There have been as many as 500 pictures working in this studio at one time.

Among the famous productions that have been made at the United Studios are: "The Extraordinary Mr. B," "The Voice from the Minaret," starring Norma Talmadge, "The Miracle Man," "The Little Lord Fauntleroy," "The Hoodlum," and "The Love Light," starring Mary Pickford, "The Bad Boy," "My Boy," "Daddy," and "Toby Tyler of the Circus," starring Jackie Coogan. "The Musketeers," "The Mark of Zorro," "Why the Clouds Roll By," "His Majesty the American," starring Douglas Fairbanks, "On the Trail," "The Tentmaker," "The Masquerader," starring Guy Bates Post, "The Great Gatsby," the big Selznick production, and others too numerous to mention.

Dr. Lynn R. Cole, a prominent dentist of this city, was arrested yesterday at his office, 763 Story Building, by Detective Sergeant Trainor and O'Brien, who said they acted on a telegraphic request from Sheriff Starwick of Seattle.

The Sheriff's message, according to the detectives, said a warrant charging perjury had been issued in that city. It gave no other information.

Dr. Cole said he believed his arrest was the result of "spite work" by his divorced wife. A suit is pending in Seattle courts for the custody of their child, he said, but he declared he had never committed perjury in it or any other action and was at a loss to account for his arrest.

STARTS SECOND SEMESTER

Capt. Thomas A. Davis, President of the San Diego Army and Navy Academy, located at Pacific Beach, announced yesterday that the second semester of the school will open tomorrow and that many new enrollments have already been made. The school is one of only two military schools in Southern California which have earned full accreditation at West Point; also a Division A school under the University of California rating and in the M classification of the War Department.

Sacatela Drain Plans Gone Into by Committee

Members of the Sacatela storm drain committee of the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce met last evening at the offices of E. F. Bonard at the intersection of Sunset Boulevard and Western avenue with representatives of the Western Avenue Business Association. The meeting was for the purpose of discussing the plans for the big Arroyo de la Sacatela storm drain, which is being held in Los Angeles on Nov. 15, 1921. It was reported a money settlement involving more than $100,000 was made after the separation.

The Paddelford family were married in Houston, Tex., Dec. 14, 1917, and were separated in Los Angeles on Nov. 15, 1921. It was reported a money settlement involving more than $100,000 was made after the separation.

Mrs. Paddelford said yesterday she took the trip abroad in order to further the musical education of her daughter, Marie. She was also accompanied on the trip by her son, Jack.

Shortly after Mrs. Paddelford had been in Europe, cable dispatches from Vienna carried an account of her arrest on a shoplifting charge, stating that she was being held in Los Angeles in Paris, totaling thousands of francs. These charges were denied yesterday by Mrs. Paddelford.

In September of 1922, Paddelford filed suit for divorce, the complaint being crowded with sensational charges.

charges, she says, that have been brought against her by Paddelford during her absence.

"And you might tell 'em," Mrs. Paddelford said in the office of her lawyer, Philip Cohen, "that I've come back to fight to clear my name of these cruel things that have been said of me."

"I am going to fight this divorce to the limit. I'll play a Mrs. Paddelford on him and get a divorce myself after he has failed."

An answer to the charges in the divorce in behalf of his client will be filed within the next few days, according to Mr. Cohen. In all probability a cross-complaint will be filed. Mrs. Paddelford's attorney stated.

"In due time, after I have been able to deliver more fully into these charges, my client will be acquitted in the public mind and before the court when the matter comes to trial of the ridiculous charges which have been brought against her," Mr. Cohen declared yesterday.

Mrs. Paddelford explained the rumor relative to an arrest while in Vienna, Austria.

"I was not arrested for shoplifting or on any criminal complaint whatsoever," Mrs. Paddelford declared yesterday. "I was quizzed in Lucerne, Switzerland, relative to passing under two names. I had the name of Mrs. George E. Paddelford on my passport. At a hotel in Lucerne I signed my name as Mrs. Ben Teal, a name I have used professionally at times, as my daughter's name is Cynthia Marie Teal, receiving this name from my first husband."

SHOWS STATEMENT

In substantiation of her assertion that she was not held on a shoplifting charge in Vienna, Mrs. Paddelford's attorney, Mr. Cohen, produced a statement from the criminal court of Lucerne, Switzerland, which stated:

"We herewith give testimony, to be delivered to Mrs. Genevieve M. Paddelford from Los Angeles, Cal., that the Attorney-General of the canton Lucerne has made neither an accusation nor a motion against Mrs. Paddelford on a charge of shoplifting. Sig. Kaufman, chairman of criminal court, Lucerne, Dec. 11, 1922."

CONDITIONS

markedly well in some sections, the January business has been heavier than that of the last day of December.

Local dealers in all classes of food products report a continued activity in these lines. As "one" population increases business in food products will naturally grow. Food comes first among all of the necessities. The clothing industry is also very brisk. The auto mobile business shows no sign of abatement. All the dealers report a very active demand. There is no falling off in the building industry. Architects report many new projects under way, which will make the total investments in new buildings in 1923 larger than they were in 1922.

OVERDOING SUBDIVISION

Locally, some far-seeing men are of the opinion that subdivision of acreage into town lots is being overdone. Of course, every tract laid out will be in part sold and in part built on. Some of these tracts, even, are entirely sold out as soon as offered and all immediately thereafter.

In the residential section of the present Los Angeles there are thousands of lots which have never been improved. The burden of carrying vacant lots is being shifted to the interest on the money invested in them, is extremely heavy, with no immediate sign of any decrease. Taxes will probably be heavier, rather than lighter, for years to come. Notwithstanding the vacant lots now on hand, new subdivisions are being put upon the market in every direction. The cost of subdivision work at present is three times what it formerly was. Adding this increased cost to the natural increment in the value of lands, lots in new subdivisions must be sold at a greater price than ever before. Of course, increased population adds to the price of real property.

Our population is increasing with great rapidity, but many think that the opinion of many to keep up with the subdivision movement. It is hardly possible that the mistakes of 1919 are to be repeated. So, in the present, the subdivision prices of real estate are being put on a more realistic basis than in the old times. The more optimistic opinion of the real estate market is that, however, point to the fact that people are coming here so rapidly that there is bound to be a demand for all of the property being subdivided.

PETTY GRAFT

According to a statement in a responsible evening journal of this city the members of the City Council recently resorted to a petty graft—disgraceful to them and more so to the city. The statement published was that when the request of the managers of the Tournament of Roses, accompanied by ten passes to the football game to be played at the Coliseum on New Year's Day, was presented to the Council, the Councilmen refused to enter into the matter until they had received two passes to the game and the two passes were produced and the appropriation made.

It is well known that the state of the City of Los Angeles is in a financial straits and the money for the purchase of the passes should have been offered by the Tournament of Roses or accepted by the Council. If the Councilmen refused to accept the passes of so small a favor from Missouri would want to know if larger appropriations require equally larger favors. The newspaper account published did not state whether or not all of the Councilmen united in the demand. In fact, it stated that one Councilman remained discreet and during the discussion. A majority, it seems, acted. If the newspaper report is true, could anything be worse?

The public is to be congratulated that a Federal trial for the eight railroad strikers guilty of conspiracy and of violating the court's injunction when trains were abandoned in the desert last summer. Many people, considering the heinous nature of the offense, do not think the sentence of the court was severe enough. The companions of these men will pay the fines imposed upon the defendants and laugh at the trial. A stiff jail sentence would have made these men realize the seriousness of the offense which they committed. It is refreshing to hear that the Federal court has punished at all. Had they been let in a State court the job would have been probably have acquitted.

SITUATION IN EUROPE

The situation in Europe is very alarming, yet most of the European countries are better off than they were a year ago, for the reason that they are increasing their production of food products. Most of them will agree any help from the outside world until they forget their animosities, reduce their expenses, eliminate their armies and quit meddling in the affairs of other nations. They must show a spirit of devotion for past errors and devote all of their energies to rebuilding that which was ruthlessly destroyed. At the present moment, they are doing none of these things. Further war has been the entire continent. The invasion of Germany by France disturbs the business equilibrium of the European world.

Reviewing the general situation in America and the disturbed situation abroad, one must conclude that conservatism in business should be the order of the day. What the summer, fall and winter will bring forth is entirely problematical.

The execution of rebels by the authorities of the Irish Free State still continues. "And they're hanging Danny Dever in the morning."

Most of them will agree any help from the outside world until they forget their animosities, reduce their expenses, eliminate their armies and quit meddling in the affairs of other nations. They must show a spirit of devotion for past errors and devote all of their energies to rebuilding that which was ruthlessly destroyed. At the present moment, they are doing none of these things. Further war has been the entire continent. The invasion of Germany by France disturbs the business equilibrium of the European world.

Reviewing the general situation in America and the disturbed situation abroad, one must conclude that conservatism in business should be the order of the day. What the summer, fall and winter will bring forth is entirely problematical.

The execution of rebels by the authorities of the Irish Free State still continues. "And they're hanging Danny Dever in the morning."

PICKED YOUR TITLES YET?

Playgoers' Revue is Giving Entertainment Galore

Selection of Names Now is Popular Pastime

"Book of Plays" Edition to be Ready Soon

"Have you picked them? I have!" is the popular salutation throughout the Southland nowadays in referring to the fascinating "Playgoers' Revue" which runs in The Times until February 16. Picking titles of well-known plays to be the thirty pictures, one of which appears each day, is easily the most popular pastime of the day, with the ultimate goal of the many participants being the $500 in cash prizes to be distributed among the best title pickers.

The object of the Revue is to pick three titles for each picture and there is no cost or work to do other than to send in one new or renewal subscription of either three months or twelve months. The subscriber is eligible for prizes up to $500, while, with a 12 month subscription, it is possible to win up to $2500.

SUBSCRIBERS ANXIOUS

Many participants are sending in their subscriptions early. In most cases this is being done by new subscribers who are anxious to get the paper at once and follow the Revue.

It has come to the attention of the Revue department that a number of people have turned in their subscriptions through the local agent or carrier. This is the wrong procedure. Every subscription must be sent direct to the Playgoers' Revue, The Times, Los Angeles, Cal., together with the full amount of the subscription. Otherwise the title answers cannot be qualified for the prize.

Enthusiasts in the Revue who have obtained their copies of the "Book of Plays" are having no difficulty in selecting three appropriate titles for each of the pictures. The enjoyment is derived from it is surpassed only by the anticipation of sharing in the $5000 prize list.

NEW BOOK EDITION

The second edition of this handy book of the Revue is on sale at the Times main office and the branch office, 621 South Spring street, at 10 cents a copy. A copy will also be mailed anywhere free of charge upon receipt of 10 cents in coin or stamps.

Further details of the Playgoers' Revue will be found in the advertisement elsewhere in this issue.

It is possible to start any time. All that a new entrant needs is a set of previous pictures, if these are missed, copies of all past pictures will be supplied free of charge to anyone who calls, writes or telephones to the Playgoers' Revue department of The Times, or they may be obtained at the main office circulation counter of branch offices.

FEW GET PROBATION

Court Sentences Eleven With Clemency for But One

Fewer criminals are getting probation, it was indicated by figures from Judge Reeves' department of the Superior Court for the month of January. This is one of the busiest criminal courts.

Judge Reeves sentenced eleven defendants to San Quentin during the month and granted probation to one only, J. F. Kelly.

SQUAD TO HUNT VAGRANTS

Plain-Clothes Officers Given Task of Ridding City of Drifters With Crime Records

Further steps in the reorganization of the police department were taken yesterday when Chief of Police Oaks formed a new squad of thirty men to hunt out vagrants and suspicious characters. He placed Police Lieut. G. S. Ammon in charge of the squad.

The members of the squad, with weapons, and these are given sentences. The sifting process is expected also to turn up men who are wanted in other cities for various crimes, and give the police generally a line on criminal and quasi-criminal elements of the population.

The new squad was announced at a meeting of police captains with the Chief at Central Station. Chief Oaks believed it will be possible in this way to rid the city of many criminals. It is expected many of the drifters will be found.

POSTOFFICE TRADE BOOMS

January Business Only Exceeded by December of Last Year; Other Departments Flourish

January was a banner month at the Federal Building, to judge by transactions reported by the postoffice, internal revenue and customs departments. Figures indicate an unprecedented activity along all lines, and show that the people of Los Angeles are doing their full share to support the administration of government.

The January receipts of the postoffice were the largest in history with the exception of last December, a holiday month. But with the single exception of December, 1922, the figures given out yesterday by Postmaster O'Brien showed a record for the month. Sales totaled $559,033.55, as compared with $459,699.19 for January, 1922, a gain of 21.74 per cent.

The January report of Collector Schwabe of the customs office shows a heavy increase in imports, exports and collections, in comparison with the report on the same month in 1922. The receipts jumped to $200,000 in January, 1923, as compared with $165,340 in January, 1922.

Imports increased from $1,162,181 in January, 1922, to $2,177,729. Exports have increased more than 200 per cent, value for the past month being $2,778,000, while

Woman He is Accused of Attacking is in Too Serious Condition to Appear

Because of the condition of Mrs. Margarita D'Aute, the case against C. H. Wheeler and F. C. Neal, prohibition agents, charged with assaulting her with intent to do great bodily harm, was continued yesterday by Justice Scott until the 4th inst., at 10 a.m.

Dep. Dist. Atty. McClelland, in requesting the continuance, stated that the woman's condition was so serious that she might die, and for that reason the District Attorney's office preferred not to go ahead with the case at the present time. The decision to request the continuance followed a conference between Chief Dep. Dist. Atty. Keyes, Dep. Dist. Atty. Burton and McClelland and Asst. U. S. Atty. Mark Herrow.

Joseph D'Aute, husband of the injured woman, was placed on the witness stand for a few moments. A statement by Mrs. D'Aute would not be in condition to appear in less than a week, if at all, and that Mr. D'Aute was still suffering from bruises and contusions, including one on the abdomen.

Arrangements were made for Dr. H. M. Southard and Edward H. Anthony to examine Mrs. D'Aute.

CHICAGO MAN IS FREED HERE

Virtus C. Rohm, one of twenty-four Chicagoans indicted in the Chicago Board of Education graft inquiry, who was arrested in Los Angeles Tuesday on telegraphic information, was released yesterday on habeas corpus proceedings before Judge Paul J. McCormick in the Superior Court.

In granting the writ Judge McCormick placed Rohm under $10,000 bond. It was understood the bond would be forfeited if he failed to appear in Chicago by February 10.

The school board bond fraud case, in which Rohm is asserted to be implicated, involved $2,000,000. The surety bond for $10,000 was ordered made in favor of the State of Illinois to insure Rohm's appearance. Judge McCormick ruled that Rohm was held without legal process but instructed Chief of Police Oaks to hold him in technical custody until the bond is executed.

In a telegram to Dist. Atty. Woolwine from Atty. Gen. Edward J. Brundage, Chicago, received yesterday, the latter said the indictment against Rohm charges that March 9, 1923, he conspired with Edwin S. Davis, president of the Board of Education of Chicago, and others to defraud and obtain $1,000,000 by false pretenses from the Board of Education, the State and the City Treasurer of Chicago.

Frank London was a defendant and one of the asserted conspirators to prevent competition in the letting and awarding of contracts for insurance on behalf of the Board of Education in order to favor the Southern Surety Company.

LATEST SEPARATION FROM SPOUSE FINAL

"I've got another girl and I'm going for good," Mrs. Clara C. Lovett asserted George C. Lovett said to her when he left her. She filed suit for divorce yesterday in Superior Court. Her complaint charges his conduct was such during their two and a half years of married life that she was forced to leave him fifteen times. L. Lee Bernstein is her attorney.

EDISON'S BOND SALE APPROVED

State Commission Authorizes Development Account

Millions Are to be Expended During Present Year

Enormous Output Scheduled for Southern California

Word was received here yesterday that the State Railroad Commission had authorized the Southern California Edison Company to sell $10,000,000 general mortgage bonds, the income from which is to be used in new construction and development work to be carried on during the year 1923 at a total cost of $25,000,000.

The company's budget of expenditures for the current year provides for the completion of new water-power plants of 125,000 horsepower capacity, as well as transmission-line construction and extensions to all distributable points throughout Southern California and the San Joaquin Valley, made necessary by the rapid growth of this territory.

The amount of new water power being brought into operation this year and made available for all purposes is the largest installation of this character ever completed in a single year by any power producing agency in the State of California and follows the bringing into service two years ago of $1,000,000 horse-power on the Kern River and Big Creek by the same company. With the completion of the new plants the Edison company's total electrical generating capacity will exceed 500,000 horsepower, which would amply meet the water-power developments at Niagara Falls in the State of New York.

GREAT OUTLAY PLANNED

Submitted to the State Railroad Commission and made a part of the general financial plan, the Southern California Edison Company's plan for the year 1923 calls for a total expenditure during this year and the next succeeding five years of $127,000,000 on account of the $22,024,000 is already spent. The remainder must be provided to meet the enormous need for the future covered by the program including the year 1928. These expenditures will bring into operation in that period of 20,000 horsepower of new water-power plants, together with additional reservoirs having a total of 210,000-acre feet of water, or a quantity of water which, if spread over the entire area of 10,000 acres to a depth of one foot.

All this new power will be made available for residential, industrial, agricultural, commercial and rail purposes throughout the entire territory in which the company operates. The addition of power to Los Angeles because of the contract which the city has with the company, obligating it for a period of thirty years to furnish the Bureau of Power and Light of the city with all the power needed, in that city, is a part of the entire Los Angeles system in excess of the amount generated by the city at its own power plants.

R. H. BALLARD COMMENT

Commenting on this benefit, R. H. Ballard, vice-president and general manager of the Southern California Edison Company, said: "We stand ready to furnish all the power which can be used within Los Angeles under the terms of our contract with the city, which provides that the rate for the power shall be fixed from time to time by the State Railroad Commission. We are providing the necessary means to power under an efficient and economical program and as we get further and further into large development with the conservation of an additional amount of water in the mountains equal to seven times the amount now available for power purposes, the cost of development of such horsepower will become less and less, directly and favorably affecting the rates to consumers including Los Angeles city, at wholesale. Our actual expenditures for the past few years have all been made in connection with our enlarged Big Creek-San Joaquin River development project, which, when finally completed, in the next ten or fifteen years, will furnish the equivalent of the growth of California, the largest electric water power project in the world, having a total capacity of more than 1,400,000 horsepower."

WITNESSES FOR EDISON QUESTIONED

Cross-Examination on Rate Charges is Started by Judge Brittain

Cross-examination of Southern California Edison Company officials who appeared as witnesses in the rate hearing in progress before the State Railroad Commission was begun yesterday by Judge Brittain, representing the California Federated Farm Bureau, which is seeking a rate reduction.

Arthur Kelley, valuation engineer for the company, was the first witness cross-examined by Judge Brittain. From the tenor of the questions it was indicated Judge Brittain would attack the company's figures on which rates were based.

The hearing probably will be concluded tomorrow, at which time the commission will place Paul Thelen, an engineer, on the stand to clarify the issues and technical points raised during the hearing.

That the Southern California Edison Company constitutes a basic power system the equity of which does not exist was one of the statements relative to its scope made by its general manager, R. H. Ballard, at yesterday's hearing.

Mr. Ballard, who was the closing witness for the power company, said his interest was primarily not in the technique of a rate base, but was concentrated on an effort to the end that the corporation may function in a financially sound manner. To do this, he continued, the financial returns must be made sufficiently attractive to obtain an ever-growing tide of new capital.

The Edison company's estimated revenue for the present year, according to the general manager, will be $17,154,000. Against this expense in excess of $4,000,000 must be charged, leaving a net revenue calculated as slightly in excess of $13,000,000. The present year, 1923, it was stated, is set aside by company officials as a peak year in the history of the corporation for outlay, inasmuch as three great projects, now in course of construction, are to be brought into activity during the period of 1923. The additions to power-houses at Big Creek, in the Sierra, known as Nos. 1 and 2, will be ready to distribute power to Central and Southern California consumers late in 1923. The Florence Lake tunnel project is expected to be completed by the end of 1923. The combined power of these plant additions, it is estimated, will suffice for all demands made by users of the State for a period of several years. The estimates, both as to revenue and power needs, submitted by him, Mr. Ballard stated, were computed upon a basis of normal growth, as shown by the company's past history.

The company's total tax assessment annually, according to D. M. Trotter, controller, who preceded Mr. Ballard upon the witness stand, is $1,750,000. Income taxes dispose of $500,000 of this amount, the remaining $1,250,000 being included in State, county and city tax. The total, it was pointed out, represents 25 per cent of the income of the corporation.

JOHNSON APPOINTED STATE BANK HEAD

LOS ANGELES MAN NAMED TO SUCCEED DODGE, WHO RESIGNED

J. Frank Johnson of Los Angeles and San Bernardino is the new Superintendent of State Banks, succeeding Jonathan R. Dodge, whose resignation took effect yesterday. The appointment was officially announced yesterday by Gov. Richardson.

Mr. Johnson was deputy State Treasurer under Mr. Richardson for eight years. Prior to that he was cashier of the Farmers' Exchange National Bank and the Savings Bank of San Bernardino. He retired because of ill health, refusing an offer to succeed as president of the two banks.

Recent rumors throughout the State that Mr. Johnson was to receive the appointment of Superintendent of State Banks, resulted in messages from scores of prominent bankers to Gov. Richardson, testing his efficiency for the position.

SUITS TAKE ON A WRAPPY AIR

Through Their Sleeves

Even the tailor-mades of the Spring mode present a very definite softness of line. This is most often accomplished through wrappy and kimono sleeve effects and shawl collar treatments. In this collection there is a remarkable style variety; there are types to please everyone. Unusual jacket models featuring the bolero type are very smart, emphasizing embroidery, ribbon and braid trims. Tannish and grayish shades, along with the ever-popular navy, predominate, with barley, ramie and beige as special favorites. Twillcoats and piquetwill are materials seen often, with covert tweed for sports.

Spring Frocks Stress Simple Lines with an Occasional Circular Flare

Selecting one's first Spring Frock is always an exhilarating sort of experience. This delightfully varied collection promises to be even more. Simplicity of design marks the mode, with skirt lengths and waistlines acting very conservatively. A trimming note looming up importantly is found in beading of many sorts, with colorful embroidery and tucking arrangements sharing honors, too. Crepe, romaine, flat crepe, Canton, taffetas, checked and plain, twills and wool-filled crepes are favored fabrics. Gray shades come to the fore both in daytime and evening models, with crushed berry, almond green, beige, slate blue and pomegranate favored also.

ATTORNEY PAID WITH VOUCHERS

City Water Board Retains

"Purchase Orders" Prevent Council Interfering

The de-luxe wages paid by the Board of Public Service Commissioners to Attorney S. B. Robinson for legal services, without authority from the City Council, were shown yesterday by an examination of bills and expense accounts submitted by Mr. Robinson and paid by the board on "purchase orders" or vouchers, charged to administration expense. By this method Mr. Robinson's name appears on no pay roll and the assent of the City Council to the arrangement is not required.

From Nov. 1, 1922, until yesterday, Mr. Robinson was paid $22,111.11, or at the rate of $524 a year, nearly twice the salary paid to the Mayor and more than twice the salary of City Attorney Stephens.

GENS EXPENSES CASH

Mr. Robinson's earnings due to his unofficial connection with the Board of Public Service Commissioners totaled from November 1, 1922, to yesterday $22,111.11, the additional $180.50 being for expenses, including breakfasts, lunches and dinners while Mr. Robinson was journeying to Reno, San Francisco and other points on business for the board.

From Dec. 31, 1922, to Nov. 1, 1923, Mr. Robinson had been paid a total of $14,488.88, making a total paid from Dec. 31, 1922, until yesterday, $16,880.71.

Examination of the expense accounts and bills showed that Mr. Robinson is being paid at the rate of $17.50 per day for each day's work for the city, and $50 a day when he appears in court on behalf of the board.

BILL IN DETAIL

The investigation showed that most of the recent work charged for on the case where the board is seeking to obtain a condemnation by the city of the $17,000 electric generating and distributing system of the Los Angeles Gas & Electric Corporation.

The company is requesting condemnation. The bill goes into great detail and credit Mr. Robinson with having worked two half days on this case at $17.50 for each half day, four full days at $37.50 a day, and one quarter day, for which he was paid $12.50.

While City Attorney Stephens, who receives but $4000 a year, is under the charter the legal adviser of all city departments, Mr. Robinson presumably is working under the direction of Mr. B. M. Gross, special counsel of the Board of Public Service Commissioners, who receives, under a contract recently approved by the City Council, $12,000 a year.

The present method of paying Mr. Robinson by "purchase orders" was adopted last year after an informal attempt to obtain the approval of the Councilmen to attach Mr. Robinson on the public service pay-roll at $12,000 a year failed. Under his arrangement with the board Mr. Robinson's fees from the city are in addition to the money he earns in his private practice.

GIRL'S MIND IS CHANGED; MAN FREED

Repudiates Statement on Charge Under Mann Act and Cousin is Dismissed

The fluctuating testimony of Miss Leah L. Gann resulted yesterday in the dismissal by U. S. District Judge Trippett of the case against Andrew T. Elliott, who was charged with violation of the Mann Act.

Elliott, who is a Long Beach automobile mechanic, was arrested on a complaint sworn to by the girl's mother, who is Elliott's mother-in-law, and by the girl's father, Frank M. Sturgis, former Department of Justice agent, took a statement from Miss Gann in which she is said to have admitted the charges made against Elliott.

On the witness stand yesterday she denied the assertions made in the statement, which had not been signed and sworn to by affidavit, hence could not be admitted as evidence.

Previous testimony revealed that Elliott brought his nineteen-year-old cousin to Long Beach in 1921, driving across the country from Windfall, Kan., in an automobile with another family.

For the statement of the statement caused Asst. U. S. Dist. Atty. Meador to request an instructed verdict in Elliott's favor. Elliott has been in the County Jail since October. The girl refused to return home with her parents, saying she intended to stay in Los Angeles.

HOUSEHOLD SPLITS ON HONOR CODE

Made-in-Germany Ideas of Husband Win Divorce
for Accusing Wife

Her husband's ideas of conduct and efficiency, which he brought with him from Germany, broke her health and ruined her happiness, Mrs. Frances W. Gross testified before Judge Keetch in Superior Court, where she was granted a divorce from Frederick Gross.

A "mailed fist" policy was enforced by her husband in their home, she testified. He wrote out an "honor code" for her to follow, she declared, and enforced this code at all times and all places.

Some of the rules which he laid down for her were as follows, she said:

"When riding in a suburban train you must sit upright, you seat and not place your arm on the window sill.

"When walking on the street you must not turn your head to the right or left.

"You must dance with no one but myself.

"You must not have friends, either male or female."

In addition to this, she said, her husband was inordinately jealous. He drove several girl friends from the house and accused her of wrong doing when in public places because men glanced at her.

During the war, she testified, her husband posed as a citizen of the world. In reality he was pro-German and forced her to listen to long harangues against the United States and the Allied powers, she said.

The divorce was granted by Judge Keetch in his courtroom at 1114 and separated Aug. 19, 1922.

Mrs. Gross said that her husband was born in Berlin and was graduated from a German university. They met while Mrs. Gross was touring on the continent with her parents.

Liberal Arts College Class to Graduate

Forty-one seniors from the college of liberal arts, University of Southern California, will form the midyear class of graduates to complete school work in February, although the students will not receive their diplomas and graduation honors until June, when they will join the graduating class of more than 400 members for commencement exercises. Many of the February graduates will remain in the institution for post-graduate work.

One of the best known of the midyear graduates is Lindsey Bothwell, variety play leader. Members of the class are Edith Butler, Ethel M. Bass, Mrs. Bothwell, Bernard Brennan, H. Curtis Cassill, John M. Chamberlain, William E. Dolton, Elias Gibson, Glen G. Grant, Vesta E. Gross, Fern Hepler, Mrs. Ines Hinrichs, Tazuo Mori, Bern A. Jackson, Joe C. GUARDIAN REMOVED Woman's Nephew Steps Out on Po. Stop of Mrs. E. McKell Mayo

The petition of Mrs. Eleanor McKell Mayo for the removal of her nephew, T. J. McKell of San Diego, as her guardian, was granted yesterday in Superior Court by Judge Craig. Mrs. Mayo's petition asserted that Mr. McKell, as guardian, subjected her to various restrictions, including the reduction of her income, from $400 a month to a sum considerably less.

Judge Craig appointed J. B. McLaughlin, attorney, as the guardian of her person and the Helman Trust and Commercial Bank as the guardian of her property.

SCHOOL IN NEW BUILDING Officials of the Efficiency Business College announced yesterday that the school, now located in the Douglas Building, will soon move into spacious new quarters on the fifth and sixth floors of the Jewellers' Building, which is being erected at 741-743 South Hill street.

The business college, although one of the youngest, has become one of the largest schools of its kind in Los Angeles.

URGED TO USE MODERN IDEAS

Cattlemen Hear Salt Lake City Expert

Told to Adopt Present-Day
Business Methods

F. J. Heney and Others Are Convention Speakers

At the second day's session of the twenty-sixth annual convention of the American National Live-Stock Association in the Music and Arts Hall yesterday, F. J. Heney, mayor of Salt Lake City took the platform and told the assembled cattlemen that they must modernize their methods or go out of the business.

Mr. Heney is a member of the executive committee of the association and a member of the committee on stockyards and live-stock exchanges in the same organization. He is one of the leading cattlemen and always of the West, and spoke with authority on subjects that are of vital interest to the live-stock industry.

"We must get down to modern efficiency and get in line with present-day methods," Mr. Heney said. "The old plan followed by cattlemen will not work today."

Statistics show there has been a great decrease in the number of live-stock raisers, but this, he remarked, Mr. Heney said, was due to underconsumption, twenty-five years ago, less being consumed now than a few years ago.

PROSPERITY AT HAND

"Prosperity, they tell us, is just around the corner, and this may be true, for livestock always repeats itself," continued Mr. Heney, "in spite of this fact, if we wish to succeed, we must bear in mind that the raising of a 3-year-old steer is an economic mistake because the selling price of a 3-year-old steer is 20 per cent to 30 per cent less than the cost of production. Take a lesson from the sheepmen, who have stopped selling wethers and are now selling quick-maturing lambs. Intensely your business 'baby beef' market your cattle as yearlings and receive fat-ster prices instead of feeder prices."

DR. IVERSON SPEAKS

Dr. F. Iversen, chief of the division of animal industry of the California State Department of Agriculture, talked on the value of conformity in interstate shipping regulations. Various State, he said, have dissimilar regulations, which frequently result in inconvenience and loss to shippers of live stock. He recommended a conference of officials to correct this situation.

The barbecue for cattlemen which was to have taken place at Bixby ranch was deferred on account of rain. Today the convention will adjourn at 12 o'clock. Autos and busses with transport cattlemen to an inspection of the new Union Stockyards and lunch there. Returning, the delegates will resume convention work at 2 p.m. Visiting cattlemen and delegates are invited by the Union Stockyards Company to use the free bus service from the Rossmore Hotel, eat a good lunch and see the new yards.

The ladies who wish to accept Mrs. Bixby's invitation for a ride to Pasadena, today, are to meet at 10:30 a.m. at the Rossmore Hotel.

JASTRO INTRODUCES HENEY

H. A. Jastro of Bakerfield, former president of the American National Live-Stock Association, introduced Francis J. Heney, who, in a sensational speech, repeated the controversy between cattlemen, stockmen and middle marketing agencies and packers, which has slept since the passage of the Packers and Stockyards Act.

ACTORS HALT Collapse of Circus Tent

A drama not in the scenario was enacted last night at the Goldwyn studios, where Rupert Hughes, in the role of motion-picture director, is also the ringmaster of a circus that covers eleven acres of ground.

The heavy rains of the past few days added fourteen tons of weight to the big circus tents. While a company of 300 people was working in the "big top" the stakes began to pull out of the soft ground. The canvas started to fall on the actors and technical men.

The expert circus crew which came with the tents when they were purchased from Barnum & Bailey, principals, extras, electricians and other technical men immediately assumed the roles of stake-drivers in an effort to prevent the collapse of the tents.

Maj. Hughes took command, with James Hogan and James Fudge as his chiefs. Chief of the circus, Richard Dix, Frank Mayo, Low Cody and other actors swung mallets in a contest with the elements. The actresses also helped. Eleanor Boardman, Mae Busch and Barbara La Marr tugged at the sagging ropes. After a two-hour struggle the tent was saved.

The complete circus is later to be burned down as a scene for "Souls For Sale," Rupert Hughes' story of motion-picture life.

ITEM OF COMPETITION

Swift, Armour, Cudahy and others were said, in substance, to be unable to compete successfully with small packers without inside advantages, since small killers operated more economically, paid higher wages and made more profit.

Mr. Heney said rebates were stopped, but asserted packers were indirectly interested in making bumpers and a species of flange-attachment for railroad cars and added "that there was more than one way to skin a cat." He said packers controlled so much freight they could almost dictate to a railroad if laws permitted.

Mr. Heney attacked advertisements by packers of low profits and described a past interrogation of Louis Swift relating to the method of securing meat costs and profits.

The speaker said that on the figures of those days that put at $1.19 the packers' profit for each head of cattle, there was a $7 to $11 difference during high hide prices between raw and cured hides and that profits were only figured on a raw hide basis.

In given volume 53 per cent of slaughter was stated to be through four large markets and 44 per cent through various central stockyard markets.

Mr. Heney saw no hope for the cattle, hog and sheep industries until co-operative marketing through a central agency was established by live-stock men to

RECONCILIATION SCRAPS DECREE

Interlocutory Writ of 1906
Annulled When Couple Appeal to Court

Joseph Carson Tunnell and his wife Bessie appeared before Presiding Judge Crall in Superior Court yesterday and requested that the interlocutory decree of divorce granted the husband in 1906 be set aside. Since the decree was granted, they said, they have become reconciled and have been living happily for seventeen years. Judge Crall complied with their request.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP

Public ownership was advocated by the Federal Trade Commission report on refrigerator cars, stockyards, etc., but Congress and people did not want it, Mr. Heney said. He evidently has little faith in the efficacy of the present Packers' and Stockyards Act to force a positive control or in legislation that does not mean public ownership of refrigerating system, yards and facilities. He added that he believed the solution of the cattle problem was co-operative marketing of live stock through a central or district agency and mentioned the raisin and citrus industries as possible examples to follow.

Soprano, Tenor, Pianist and Violinist at KHJ Today

Soprano, Tenor, Pianist and Violinist

END THREE MONTHS IN CLASS

KHJ Broadcasting Station Has No Celebration But Good Program is Offered

Yesterday KHJ rounded out its third month as a Class B broadcast station. While no special effort was made to celebrate the event, the programs were fitting commemoration of the occasion, because listeners-in will not easily forget the superb vocal and instrumental portraits, the readings, talks, whistling solos and the orchestral offerings which went out through the air-lanes.

An outstanding feature of the evening concert was the group of soprano solos by Mary Kewick Bower, lyric soprano, whose vocal charm has won commendation from listeners-in throughout the continent. Velvety and rich in the lower tones, this singer's voice is so even throughout its fine range, and of such a warm, sympathetic timbre in the higher registers that it challenges criticism. Flexibility of phrasing was exemplified in Mrs. Bower's ability and power to sustain a long-drawn phrase with the greatest ease. In her interpretative work she shows a fine perception, the ability to get at and express the song's meaning, plus a personal touch which is distinctly individual and pleasing. To the sympathetic accompaniment of Mrs. Guy Bush, whose services are always in demand by the best vocalists of the Southland, Mary Kewick Bower left no uncertainty in the minds of listeners-in as to "What's in the Air," the title of her first offering. Her treatment of Strauss's "Serenade," and Cadman's "I Hear a Thrush at Eve," was expressive and colorful.

JAZZ HITS EITHER

Sparkling syncopation was furnished from KHJ last night, the purveyors being Dale Innes and his Poppyland Players, who ran true to form in their contribution to an evening's quota of pleasurable performance. This group of musicians is made up of true syncopators—James Harrington picking melody from the banjo, Fred Shaffer and Dale Innes combining to bring compelling strains from the saxophones, Marlowe Innes doing his bit on the trombone, Ernie Griffith accompanying at the piano, while Roy Kessler beats time on the drums.

FEATURE RESUMED

Anne Kavanaugh, after an absence of two weeks, returned to the radio family last night and continued her series of talks on the lives of California authors, with excerpts from their works. She chose as the subject of her talk last night one of California's well-known writers—Kenneth Harris.

Ruth L. Aldrich, whistler, accompanied by Henry Plumb, lent diversity to the program last night through her superb interpretation of Nevin's "Narcissus." Bond's "Just a Wearyin' for You," and MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose." She has developed the artistic quality of whistling to a high degree and the "canary chorus" in KHJ's studio warbled its delighted approval.

Schubert Chase, a student of the California Institute of Technology, who has been in America two years studying electrical engineering, told radiofans last night what he believed radio would do for the people of China, its significance as an educational factor among his people. Characterizing China as a nation out of touch with world interests chiefly because there are so many who, because they cannot read or write, cannot keep abreast of the march of progress, Mr. Chase declared that radio was the public speaking department of the Venice Union Polytechnic High School, chose as his Wednesday evening Bible reading the story of Joseph. The listener-in obtained new light on the life of this biblical character.

Paula Dohrmann, mezzo-soprano, accompanied by Ophelia Smith, sang a group of songs last night for the kiddies, and incidentally appealed directly to her mother, who was listening in. She chose as her means of appealing to the radio family—juvenile and adult— "My Garden of Love," by J. H. Row, "Contentment," by Garrett, and a composition of Dorothy Foster.

Composer-pianist and lyric soprano united yesterday afternoon in delineations of the bygone days of the former. Hallett Gilbert, whose mother was the famous operatic contralto, Linzie Deal, has written more than 250 songs, many of which have won the approbation not only of singing artists but of competent composers. Yesterday afternoon Mr. Gilbert gave the acme of expression to his accomplishment while Gail Mills Dimmitt, lyric soprano, sang four of the songs which are Mr. Gilbert's favorites. It was a case of creative and interpretative art joining to produce a harmonious whole. Mr. Gilbert gave radioland one piano solo of his own composition. This was the first time he ever was heard by radio anywhere.

TAX BENEFIT TOLD

Edgar M. Cohen, chief of the sales tax division of the Internal Revenue Department, continued the Wednesday afternoon talks being given to assist income taxpayers in the preparation of their 1922 schedules. Mr. Cohen outlined just what dividends are received from income-tax payment, and characterized the return to the public for this payment as being far more profitable of dividends than any other money spent.

EMILE COUE
FILM DEBUT
Producers All Want to Star Him Now
Bebe Daniels Operated on for Appendicitis
Wanda Hawley is En Route to Europe

BY HELEN KLUMPT
(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—When next year's lists of the best performances on the screen are set out, some reference will have to be made to Emile Coue. This past week or so he has been acting in a film for the Educational Company, which will illustrate his theories and to everyone's surprise he proved to have an amazing screen personality. Those who have seen the first scenes of the picture wherein M. Coue speaks the subtitle, "I am not a miracle man," says that he has the poignant appeal of a veteran emotional actor. The motion-picture producers who would like to capitalize on this amazing person simply cannot understand why he won't act in a bobby feature, telling the story of his life. They keep raising their bids on his services under the impression that he is just stalling for more money.

Just the other day an acquaintance of M. Coue's was attempting to explain to a film magazine that the autosuggestionist was not angling for money and that it would be beneath his dignity to appear in such a film. "Oh, dignity—I don't care," the film man said coldly. "Tell him I make his name four times as big as anything else on the program."

Bebe Daniels has been an interested reader of every word about Coue and his clinics because for some weeks she has been suffering from appendicitis and she was determined to continue her work in spite of it. "Day by day in every way," she tried to assure me just a few days ago, but even then she was doubled up with pain.

Somewhat she managed to get through her scenes in "Glimpse of the Moon" until about a week ago when her mother and Rubye de Remer rushed her off to Dr. Erdmann who operated on her. Rubye for the same ailment. Bebe was operated on yesterday morning and is doing splendidly today. She received enough flowers to decorate all the wards of the hospitals and now the ward patients are getting up a round robin to ask her to make a personal appearance in their sick room before the hospital is closed.

Wanda Hawley stepped in New York for a few days on her way to London, where she is to appear in Tom Terris production. She looked charming, in the glimpse I had of her skipping through a theater lobby crowd.

A correspondent-by-telegram in Los Angeles has suggested that I throw the title of Dorothy Daland's last picture and use it as a leading for this column. It was "Dark Secrets," as you may recall. He went on to suggest that I might tell why no deal has been consummated between Joseph Schenck and J. D. Williams, if I wanted to surprise people.

Now I just love surprises, so I set out to ferret out that information. It may be just a rumor, but of course, it does look like the whole affair hinges on the Arbuckle picture now in the making. J. D. Williams, so the story goes, flatly refused to have his Ritz-Carlton corporation released from the Arbuckle picture by losing Buster Keaton, who went with Metro, and the Talmadges, who continue with their present releasing organization.

Will Rogers' famous gag that Goldwyn had been doing "The Christian" right along with the worthy successor, "Has The Christian" had a showing in the trade press? one reviewer asked another. "A Christian never had any showing in this business," was the reply.

Max Busch may be interested to know that she has been elevated to stardom by one New York exhibitor. A few days after he attended a private showing of "The Christian," he was playing "Only A Shop Girl" at his theater. Seizing the opportunity to show what he thought of her, he put her name in electric lights. Furthermore, he says he is going to continue to do it with every picture she is in.

"Patrons," has ended its run at the Criterion and the gigantic picture which advertised Nazimova has been moved over to the theater where she is playing on the coming stage. Her "Dagmar" is generally referred to as "Dagmar." The preferred picture "Rich Men's Wives" has moved in. The exhibitor simply doesn't direct pictures for any audience, that is all there is to it. As we say superlatively hereabouts, "you can't serve both God and morons" so I suppose he makes a lot of money. The piece isn't bad, however, as these matters go. Barbara La Marr is excellent. She reveals hitherto hidden depths, and succeeds in looking almost plain where her beauty would be an unwelcome distraction. And dear little Zasu Pitts is a welcome sight though she hasn't much to do with the story.

"The World's Applause" may not be a better story, but it is much more skillfully done. Bebe Daniels is radiant in it.

Baby Peggy, the New York reviewer's favorite motion-picture star, is also appearing at the Rialto this week. Her picture is "Peg of the Movies," a delightful concoction. The other pictures on Broadway are "Nobody's Money," in which Jack Holt proves to be a left farceur, and "One Million in Jewels," made by J. P. MacGowan, which marks a long step backward in the progress of the motion picture. "Robin Hood" is playing its second engagement on Broadway and is packing them in at the Capitol.

The Strand and the Rivoli played to unusually big houses early in the week and I hope Lewis Stone gets due credit for it. He is appearing at both houses, in "The Dangerous Age" at the Strand and in "The World's Applause" at the Rivoli, and is suave and charming in both of them. The first is tale of the man of 40 and his indiscretions. It is common-place stuff except that it has a terrific race between an automobile and a train taken at night, that thrills even the most jaded. The cliff, I might add, bears the fatal letter in which the man casts off the faithful wife of many years. I hate these stories where the weak wife is neglected. She shouldn't be tolerated at all.

This is the Day of the Flapper!

NO STUDIO SETS
VON STROHEIM FILMS STORY IN EXACT LOCALE
By Grace Kingsley
Word from San Francisco is to the effect that Eric Von Stroheim has completed the scenario of Frank Norris' famous novel, "McTeague," for the screen, and will make most of the scenes in the city where the action of the original transpires.

The director will not see the inside of a studio while filming this story. An odd feature is that not a single studio set will be used in the picture. Even interiors will be rented, and wherever possible the exact places mentioned in the Norris story will be used. Some of these, of course, were destroyed in the big fire. An entire floor in a San Francisco building has been rented for the purpose of housing the offices of the Von Stroheim activities.

The principals in "McTeague" will be engaged in Los Angeles, but hundreds of San Francisco and Oakland persons will be used in the minor roles, bits and as atmosphere. Registration has already begun in the North.

Von Stroheim has been given carte blanche in the matters of time and money. He will be several months in the making of the Goldwyn feature.

Ganster's New One
The intriguing title "Mothers-in-Law," will be the name of Louis Ganster's next production for Benjamin Schuler. A brilliant company will interpret the story. Included among the players will be Robert Montgomery, Victor J. Stone, Joseph Swickard and Edith York.

Doris Stone, the English film beauty who recently had her appearance in the film colony, and Marie Curtis, the swimming champion, whose dancing personality was seen in "Poor Men's Wives," also have been given parts.

As a finishing touch Ganster still is seeking the most beautiful actress in Los Angeles for the role about which the story revolves. Although nearly 500 infants of the required age, viz., three months, have been inspected by the director and his aides, the fortunate youngster has not yet been selected.

The story is an original from the active playwrights of Frank Dacey and his wife, Agnes Christine Johnson, otherwise "The Dacey's." Olga Printzlau prepared the scenario.

Doble Life Note
How would you like to run a restaurant at night and work in pictures by day? Maybe you don't think the two callings mix very much.

But Gertrude Pedlar mixes them successfully.

Mrs. Pedlar is playing a nice role in "The Courtship of Miles Standish" by day, and at night she is the charming hostess of a fashionable restaurant in the Westlake district.

Leatrice Joy Loses Hat
Leatrice Joy has a grievance. And all the ladies will agree with me she has a right to one. However, the matter involved in her grievance is really a compliment in a way, to Los Angeles, so that her sense of patriotism and its gratification should somewhat console her.

It is this way. Leatrice was shopping in New York for a hat the other day. Of course she took her own off and laid it down while she "tried on." She purchased a couple of hats, but when she came to look for her own hat—Oh, well, words fail me. Let her tell it in her own way with a few pictures.

"What do you think? Just as I looked up from my search, there entering her car at the door, was a lady wearing my hat!"

"Oh!" cried one of the girls horsing around.

Gansterian Operation is Performed on Wife, Mary Hay
(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Mary Hay, the well-known actress and wife of Richard Barthelmess, film star, is the mother of a baby girl. News of the arrival was made public today at the Sloane Hospital for Women, 433 Madison Avenue and Fifty-ninth Street, where Miss Hay has been a patient. The child was born at 9:30 this morning, and Dr. Warren Hildreth performed a Caesarian operation. It was announced.

PLAYDOM
JACK'S ORIGINAL
PICKFORD MAY FILM OWN STORY, THIS SAID
By Edwin Schallert
Jack Pickford threatens shortly to demoralize the combined association of writers in Hollywood, not to speak of several other institutions by using a scenario of his own for his next picture. He may also become sufficiently ambitious to direct the feature, too, if he gets half a chance, although he has made no prophesies on this score. Anyway Jack promises to do something exciting very soon in the picture way.

His last feature "Garrison's Finish" is already in the exhibition stage. It has lately been showing in San Francisco. The local release date has not yet been announced, but will probably be made public in the near future.

One thing that everybody seems intent on bringing about just at present is a co-starring arrangement between Jack and Marilyn Miller. The only person apparently least desirous of this is Fio Ziegfeld. Miss Miller is scheduled to remain with his show. "Sally" will, it is said, and it is probably not to be until some time in the summer.

Jack's original story is a melodrama with a South American locale, so "Sally" said, and it reputedly, contains an excellent role for Marilyn. There are, however, other stories in the offing.

"What Wives Want" is the name of the next feature Jack Conway will direct for Universal. The cast includes Kathlyn Williams, Lucille Rickson, David Torrance, Robert Agnew, Raymond Hatton, Phillips Smalley, Gerard Alexander (Mrs. Bertram Grassby), Roy Stewart and others.

MIX BRINGS KING ARTHUR OUT WEST
It would require a big stretch of imagination to picture anything funnier than Tom Mix in a suit of armor, swashbuckling around as a modern Ivanhoe. Tom is at the Symphony this week in his latest uproar "Romance Land," a sort of a modern version of the tales of King Arthur.

Mix's pictures are synonymous with whirlwind action and uproarious laughter and Tom hasn't overlooked anything in this regard in his latest picture. He stages his idea of what a modern tournament should be, in real Western style, introducing old-time thrillers and bringing things to a smashing climax with a hair-raising chariot race.

Rounding out an unusual bill of comedy, novelty and entertainment is Charley Murray in "Faint Hearts," also a novel motion-picture explaining in detail the actual workings of radio apparatus and radio waves, and in addition, the latest reel of news events.

NEW MANAGER FOR KINEMA THEATRE
James Q. Clemmer, a figure in western theatrical circles and a pioneer exhibitor in Seattle, has been appointed supervising manager of the Kinema Theatre of this city by Harry C. Arthur, jr., general manager of the West Coast Theaters, Inc.

Additional musical prestige will come to the Kinema with the inauguration of some of Mr. Clemmer's policies. He believes the photoplay and the attendant music are the two essentials of a successful musical bill. Therefore, he will devote much attention to the arrangement of high-class musical features, believing that an attractive musical bill endears a production, as is often the case when an elaborately staged production proceeds or follows the picture.

Mr. Clemmer assumes his new duties immediately.

INDIAN WOMAN PLANS CAREER

Visitor From Bombay Tells of Caste Traditions

Feminine "Freedom" Urge Found Universal

Club Members Indignant at Trend of Novel

BY MEERA NYS

The freedom of a woman who breaks away from home bonds and family traditions for the sake of a career is a question which has stirred woman's circles with growing frequency of late. Much of the agitation is due to the novel "This Freedom" by A. S. M. Hutchins, the author of that widely read one, "The Winter Comes".

Men read "This Freedom" with an 18th-century attitude. Women, particularly those who are entered upon careers or mean to even if it is only a club career, grow indignant. On book review and literary duty of the Friday Morning Club, the Ebell and the Wednesday Morning Club, the spontaneous reaction of the indignation to this book is amazing in its unanimity. So alike are they in every group.

But the author of "This Freedom" is a man. Perhaps if a woman had written the book, everything that happens to the children, from a broken arm to measles, would not be blamed upon the career and the last final tragedy would have been averted. Perhaps it would not have ended with the woman rushing to the arms of the man convinced that all tragedy is due to women's careers. Perhaps.

Reverend and Harry. Hiralai and Ardashir.

The former are fiction, the characters of "This Freedom." The latter are true. Hiralai, an East Indian woman of high caste, comes to Los Angeles, tentatively and timidly looking for a career, and Ardashir, a Hindu, is her husband, who remains with her.

"I am, I think the first woman of my caste to travel alone, at least so far," said Madame Vacha yesterday. "I come with my husband to Berlin. I leave there alone."

"But your husband will be not angry?" asked.

"Oh, no, he is not angry. I am with him in reality, he knows what I am doing. We are not in reality separate."

"This money to travel—didn't you have to ask your husband for that?"

"Oh, no, all the money is both our money. We both want what we want but the husband does not want his wife to work. He thinks it spoils her."

He thinks it would spoil her to travel alone. It would be very dangerous he thinks.

"And were you afraid when you came across the ocean and the continent?"

"Not in these United States of yours. Some Europeans, yes, but straight forward reply. "Yes, to be sure I feel strange at first even here. Many people look at me and some ladies and some gentlemen ask me will I tell fortune. I do not like that."

When I asked her if she would mind the personal question—"How old are you?"—her quick response was:

"I am 44 years old. I have five children, the oldest is a daughter 24. We Parses are proud how old we are. We are not like you, who are not like you."

Madame Vacha told in a vivacious way of her girlhood which she said was most happy in a beautiful home in Bombay and the education she received there.

There were twenty-four children in the family with the married sons and daughters living at home. Her wide garden surrounded the East Indian home where the children were in charge of an Ayah (nurse) who, said the Indian woman, "knew all etiquette, all morals and much else, to teach the children."

And when you were grown what were your social pleasures?"

"We had tea parties and coffee parties, but never dance. Our money it would spoil us to see the women dance so they had parties alone to see women dance."

Ah, those men! How fearful they are of spoiling their women and how they sacrifice to prevent it, even to bear the weight of the woman dancing at their star parties!"

Yet Mrs. Vacha said that family life in Bombay is much more gentle and compact than it is in Los Angeles. "We never are divorced," she said.

She spoke before several women's clubs in the near future.

NOVELTIES, IDEAS AND PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS

By Olive Gray

Up-to-Date:

To strike a happy medium in the matter of manuring, if by your finger nails you would proclaim yourself a woman who cares. Neglected nails, with ridges, clinging cuticle, uneven edges, say in tones unmistakable that you are far from dainty as to personal attention.

The other hand—by all its fingers—sails too highly polished, conspicuously pointed, over rounded are too professional to be ladylike. Just as cheeks too red, a mouth over-lip-sticked—or should one say "over lip-gluck"—smack of cinema make-up out of place, as also do overdone eyebrows.

Trace a line between would-be and genuine ladyship.

Personal Service Shut in the house for some time because of physical disability, Heloise discovered the true benefits of the Bureau of Personal Service. Did she wish, in certain sort of living, to match a fabric, with thread, sewing silk, buttons all to "go with"—the Bureau of Personal Service was called upon over the phone, and forthwith the articles were at her door. Or, in case of minor complications, she wrote a letter inclosing a list of her wants, and it to the Bureau of Personal Service of her favorite store, and the celerity and exactitude with which her lists were filled was truly inspiring.

The declaration that she was really shopped she could have done no better, and, moreover, that she had learned to keep her own stores with those "back East." In fact, she declares there is no comparison—and she means it in her favor.

The Charge Account In this connection, if in no other, the charge account comes into its own. When you wish merchandise sent out for examination and choice, to be fitted or to match something at hand, it is so much more convenient to have a charge account. Whatever may have been your New Year resolution as to the expediency of not putting credit to use, you cannot deny the benefits of the charge account in the long run.

Moreover, if you and your family exercise any sort of self-restraint, the charge account is a most convenient plan, such as arrangements for a party, such as a single penny. Where there are growing children, a charge account is a most convenient plan, such as a single penny. Where there are growing children, a charge account is a most convenient plan, such as a single penny.

Of course, the discriminating woman has noticed, also, that she is likely to be treated to more consideration by salespeople when she is a "charge customer." The reason for this is that she is a more or less floating population, and her style of embroidery, especially designed, and that at a moderate cost. No excuse, you see, for not being interested in the hands may be in plying the needle.

Yours Monogrammed Did you ever know stores so accommodating as those in Los Angeles? No sooner than you wish that everything must be monogrammed—all our frocks, dresses, blouses, etc.—than you are in a mode, than it is announced by one of the high-class stores that we may style of monogramming to order, in any style of embroidery, especially designed, and that at a moderate cost. No excuse, you see, for not being interested in the hands may be in plying the needle.

Indication Straws A late import, in a local shop, embodies a feature which gives questioning pause to the dress philosopher. It is the very abbreviated slip, made conspicuous as it shows between elongated points of the top gown. It was thus that the short skirt intimidated its exit, and the return to this feature foreboded a revival of the long-mourned short skirt? Listen for Echo's answer in the tones of Mme. de Mode.

Dainty Baby Socks Some of the most dainty of baby sets come in the form of socks, and booties, knitted of white and colored in pink or blue, with tiny rosebuds or crocheted in natural tints, applied along the borders. These sets are both pretty and practical.

Deal Her Occasionally one is tempted to defy Mr. Dictionary Webster and his definition of a pun. Such was my temptation regarding the assistance sheet put forth by the oldest of patterneries. I watched Angela cut out an intricate garment, glancing occasionally at the new system of instruction, and her, and I participated in her triumph when she had carried the venture to a successful conclusion. Never before, had this generally skillful girl been able to "figure out" a pattern so easily and so quickly, and under the new guidance—easy as making fudge!"

On Fashion's Sign Post Striped challs is used for some very attractive sports frocks for spring.

A great many novelty braids and much pin tucking is used on spring tailcoats.

Printed fabrics will undoubtedly have a tremendous vogue for spring costumes.

Flamingo is a new cloth in waffle weave and is being used for both coats and suits.

Two rows of puffings are used on the skirt of a black tulle frock.

A MUTUAL ORGANIZATION—FOUNDED IN 1845

New York Life Insurance Co.

(Incorporated under the Laws of New York)

346 BROADWAY, NEW YORK, N. Y.

Seventy-Eighth Annual Statement

TO THE POLICY-HOLDERS:

As the Company becomes larger it becomes increasingly important that you should better understand your relation to it and better appreciate what you as a policy-holder really own, and what your property is doing for you and for others.

Here we are—mutual, no stock, no dividends except to you, no division in purpose, no general plan to stand by each other against the vicissitudes of life and against that certain unknown date when our obligations to our families will mature.

We operate scientifically. We do not guess. We do not speculate. We have certain convictions based generally on that famous formula of the Declaration of Independence which firms our inalienable right to Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness.

We go further. We admit that these rights remain "inalienable" only if we deserve them. Through unsound thinking, unsound living, cloth, extravagance and pure cussedness, rights can be alienated and lost. Through industry, frugality, clean living, provision for dependents and a due regard for the rights of others, these rights are made vital.

We together, approximately 1,500,000 of us, have justified our claim to these inalienable rights in that we stand pledged to help each other, and our dependents, to the extent of $1,000,000,000.

As the laws of Life Insurance figure it, our present liability is $788,236,317.00, and in the Insurance Department of the State of New York concurs.

We have in hand, accumulated as a sinking fund with which to fully redeem these pledges of $4,000,000,000, just under $1,000,000,000.

This is property, a great property. It belongs to you. Have you ever thought of that? If you begin to think that way now. Your policy represents your share in that property; your policy IS PROPERTY.

Do you own a piece of Real Estate? If so, you know what that means; but your Real Estate is not so certain in its value as your Policy in this Company.

Do you own a Bond? If so and if that Bond is one issued by Uncle Sam, you know what that means; but even Uncle Sam's Bond is no more certain than your Policy, and lacks emergency power.

Your Bond for $1000 cost you $1000 or thereabout, and it's good, certainly good if Uncle Sam issued it.

Your Policy for $1000 may not as yet have cost you more than $25.00, and it's good for $1000, when that unknown day comes.

You bought your bit of Real Estate, your Government Bond and your Life Policy for the same purpose—to protect your dependents, to protect yourself, in old age.

Your Life Insurance Policy is as certain as your Bond, more dependable than your Real Estate.

LOOK AT THE PICTURE PRESENTED BY THE ATTACHED BALANCE SHEET.

All that property is behind your individual policy—ALL OF IT. You are not secured by

The Mortgage alone $300,863,277.46, nor
The Railroad Bonds alone 225,079,312.14, nor
The Bonds of the United States alone / 115,370,340.00, nor Other Securities and Cash 387,439,281.36, but

By the Grand Total taken at Market Values $988,552,210.

Isn't a definite promise to pay, backed by such value, the finest security, the finest property you know of?

Isn't you glad that you hold that contract? And haven't you a feeling of regret that you didn't take a larger one when you could get it?

Can you now perform a better service than to show this exhibit to your neighbor and suggest that he or she also become a partner in the enterprise?

This property is being distributed almost as fast as it accumulates under an increasing business. In 1922 we paid you (policy-holders and beneficiaries) $130,143,274.58.

Look again at the picture. You at once see yourself as a constructive capitalist. The money you have paid is very usefully busy; it is helping the farmer, the business man and the workman. It is building hydro-electric plants, developing municipalities and backing Uncle Sam.

Both as capitalist and as insured this is the most dependable and useful property that you (jointly or severally) own.

DARWIN P. KINGSLEY, President

ROAD BOOSTERS PLAN CAMPAIGN

Southland Chambers Want Highways Built

Representatives of Affected Districts Hold Meet

Committee to be Named to Further Program

A special committee of thirteen members, representatives from the various counties of Southern California, will be appointed this week by President Bishop of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce to confer with the State Highway Commission when it assembles here next week regarding the completion of the highway and road program in this section of the State, especially the three transcontinental highways and the coast road, and to ascertain their plans in the matter.

This was decided upon yesterday at a meeting of more than seventy representatives of the various chambers of commerce in the Southland, civic bodies, the Automobile Club and members of the Board of Supervisors called by the local chamber to find the sentiment in this section as to the program necessary to insure the completion of some of the main traffic arteries of the State, and other essential connecting links.

Besides the completion of the coast highway, the three transcontinental roads stressed at the meeting, where the connections merited special attention, were the Highways from El Centro to Yuma, from Victorville to Needles, and from Blythe to Rhyolite. It was emphasized that the El Centro to Yuma link, on which already more than $700,000 has been expended, especially needs attention on the ten-mile portion through the Yuma Indian reservation, so at least one transcontinental road would be available.

Discussion at the meeting relating to the feeling that some of the major projects in highway construction and development in the southern portion of the State had been abandoned by the State Highway Commission for some unexplained reason revealed that the assembly was almost unanimous in its emphasis that the roads must be completed at the earliest possible moment. If the situation is such that they cannot be all completed, the assembly expressed itself in favor of the completion of at least one main artery.

In response to a telegram from M. C. McKenney of the Santa Monica-Ocean Park Chamber of Commerce, which was sent to Senator Charles E. Lyon and Assemblyman Hugh E. Pomerooy at Sacramento, regarding the road program and asking for a conference, the following message was received from them and read to the gathering yesterday.

"The Highway Commission meets in Los Angeles next week. Governor advises conference there. Not advisable to send committee here. Please confer with other Coast cities at a joint meeting with Highway Board. This is very important. Governor says that road will immediately proceed on southern end as far as at Ridge Gate." It was also decided that representatives at the meeting should wire their Senators and Assemblymen at Sacramento, urge the co-operation and calling attention to the policy road programs.

POLICY OUTLINED
This meeting is called as a forum, Paul G. Hoffman, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee on boulevard, parks and recreation, and chairman of the meeting, said, "to discuss the roads of Southern California, not with the idea of embarrassing the Highway Commission, but with the idea of helping it. We are not provincial and have no desire to make their path more difficult. We are only trying to look through the eyes of Southern California for the good of the entire State. We need our transcontinental highways completed and we need traversable roads."

It was pointed out by numerous representatives at the meeting that practically all the main traveled roads from the East are in bad condition and in some cases almost impassable. It was stated by a representative from the Yuma Chamber of Commerce that more than seventy-five cars daily pass through that city en route to California. At Needles it was said that more than 250 cars a day pass through that city.

According to figures quoted at the meeting more than 70,000 automobiles entered Southern California last year over the three main transcontinental routes which have been designated a part of the State highway system under the 1915 and 1919 bond issue constitutional amendments.

URGE TRUCK TAX
It was said that special appropriations had also been made by the Legislature for the Meco, to Yuma link, aside from the amounts budgeted under the 1919 bond issue. Many representatives yesterday urged that steps be taken for the levying of some sort of additional tax on trucks in the State to help maintain the highways, as it was pointed out that the heavier vehicles are the ones that do the damage and the ones that should be made to pay for it. Some time ago the local chamber recommended a gasoline tax of 3 cents to be levied for the use of the highways, thus apportioning the expense to the ones that use the roads.

It was pointed out by Supervisor Cogswell of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors that it costs $1000 a year for every mile of road after it is built; it is to be maintained properly. Supervisor Cogswell advocated a license tax on trucks as well as a gas tax if the burden is to be equally distributed. Additional meetings will probably be called by the local chamber following the conference of the committee with the Highway Commission next week.

NEW CLASSES OFFERED
Several new courses will be offered by the Manual Arts Evening High School during the new term. It was announced yesterday. Among these will be classes in American and English literature, and in American history and civics. The new classes will begin February 5, and will meet Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 7 to 9 p.m.

WOULD BUILD PIPE LINE
Application for permission to construct a temporary pipe line on piles and to lay a submerged pipe line in the east basin of the harbor has been filed with the War Department by the Los Angeles Dredging Company. A map showing the location of the proposed pipe line will be on exhibition at the United States Engineer's office, 234 Central Building, until February 4.

WRIGHT ACT WINE INTENT TO BE TRIED

Home Vintner, Who Had 200 Gallons, to Appeal From $250 Sentence

A test case to determine the correctness of recent interpretation of the Wright Act by Dist. Atty. Woolwine probably will grow out of the conviction yesterday before Police Judge Sheldon at University Station of S. Cappucco of 238 East Twenty-eighth street, charged with possession illegally of 200 gallons of asserted wine. Cappucco pleaded not guilty and offered in evidence a copy of a notice he said he had filed with the Collector of Internal Revenue of his intention to make 200 gallons of fruit juice for his own use. Cappucco declared the fruit juice was perfectly innocuous when he made it, and intimated that if it fermented it was not his fault. Deputy City Prosecutor Blake took a contrary view, declaring the fruit juice was no longer fruit juice after it had fermented, and could no longer be possessed lawfully. Judge Sheldon agreed with him, despite the District Attorney's recent ruling, which carried the implication that possession of fermented fruit juice, where a declaration of intention to make it had been filed, was not in violation of the Wright Act. Cappucco was fined $250, with an alternative of sixty days in jail. He served notice of appeal through Attorneys O'Connell and Schulz and gave $150 cash bond. Judge Sheldon fined William Lathrop $250 for illegal possession of three cases of gin. Lathrop paid the fine.
